Forget the 10,000 hour rule— what if it's possible to learn the basics of any new skill in 20 hours or less? Take a moment to consider how many things you want to learn to do. What's on your list? What's holding you back from getting started? Are you worried about the time and effort it takes to acquire new skills—time you don't have and effort you can't spare? Research suggests it takes 10,000 hours to develop a new skill. In this nonstop world when will you ever find that much time and energy? To make matters worse, the early hours of practicing something new are always the most frustrating. That's why it's difficult to learn how to speak a new language, play an instrument, hit a golf ball, or shoot great photos. It's so much easier to watch TV or surf the web . . . In The First 20 Hours, Josh Kaufman offers a systematic approach to rapid skill acquisition— how to learn any new skill as quickly as possible. His method shows you how to deconstruct complex skills, maximize productive practice, and remove common learning barriers. By completing just 20 hours of focused, deliberate practice you'll go from knowing absolutely nothing to performing noticeably well. Kaufman personally field-tested the methods in this book. You'll have a front row seat as he develops a personal yoga practice, writes his own web-based computer programs, teaches himself to touch type on a nonstandard keyboard, explores the oldest and most complex board game in history, picks up the ukulele, and learns how to windsurf. Here are a few of the simple techniques he teaches: Define your target performance level: Figure out what your desired level of skill looks like, what you're trying to achieve, and what you'll be able to do when you're done. The more specific, the better. Deconstruct the skill: Most of the things we think of as skills are actually bundles of smaller subskills. If you break down the subcomponents, it's easier to figure out which ones are most important and practice those first. Eliminate barriers to practice: Removing common distractions and unnecessary effort makes it much easier to sit down and focus on deliberate practice. Create fast feedback loops: Getting accurate, real-time information about how well you're performing during practice makes it much easier to improve. Whether you want to paint a portrait, launch a start-up, fly an airplane, or juggle flaming chainsaws, The First 20 Hours will help you pick up the basics of any skill in record time . .

We all have this problem, how to memorize? Like storing any data to the hard drive in an electronic computer it is the human brain that stores anything that the human chooses to store. As we apply the terminus "storing" in the information processing system we use the term "memorize" in the way of a person. Memorizing in simpleton termini may represent something that your brainpower will recall and is to "learn it by heart". Memorizing facts and information is not just a major challenge for students, but is sometimes a problem that an individual may face at any time in life. Every day we need to remember information, from simple things like phone numbers and addresses, to complex information that most people believe requires an innate or well-developed ability to memorize fast. Regardless adults seems to be more permanent, unless aging or a health condition deteriorates it. This is why children can quickly memorize a text before a school examination. However, as soon as the pressuring condition (exams) vanishes, children partially forget such text if there is not a reason to permanently memorize the learned facts, such as continued use of the information. As childhood ends, adolescents increase memory retention, but memorization seems more difficult than when they were younger. In adulthood, it is easier to memorize fast and retain the information, but due in part to the many distractions that adults confront every day, memorization seems harder, and this ability seems to begin to deteriorate after age 40. This memory deterioration process can be slowed, or even stopped by continually exercising the brain and its neuroplasticity. The old saying, "use it
