About Medieval Roads and Tracks. The medieval economy was centred on a phenomenal growth in trade of all kinds of goods, yet few have studied the actual network of roads that was so vital to medieval trading. Starting with the basic concept of a 'road' in medieval times, and discussing the increasing need to travel, this book explores the evidence from documents and maps that provide clues as to where the roads of medieval Britain led, connecting the study of individual roads together to ...

Medieval Roads - Wakefield Historical Society. It is impossible to know exactly the route that the procession used over five hundred years ago. However it is known that a major route existed from London to the north-east passing through Stamford and Doncaster as shown on Matthew Paris ' s map of 1250 and the Gough map of about 1360.

Medieval Roads - Wakefield Historical Society

What roads medieval people used to cross England and Wales is a fascinating question and one that has occupied me for some time. The Ordnance Survey maps at multimap.com can show you the Roman roads. I also bought the Ordnance Survey ' s Roman Britain map, precisely for this reason. The Lancashire Antiquarian argues quite strongly for the notion that the Roman roads were used well into later ...
