Joan Littlewood (1914|2002) was one of the most radical and influential theatre directors of the 20th century. Evolved over 40 years, her theatre practice was complex, imaginative and dynamic. Her productions incorporated a wide range of genres, from agitprop (a type of political art performed on the street) to commedia dell'arte and music hall. Her aim was to create theatre that was truthful and accessible to audiences from across the social spectrum.
