The Tangent Problem: You may recall a geometric method, known at least since the time of Euclid (about 300 B.C.E.) for drawing a line that touches a circle C only at one specific point, P, on the circle. [See Figure 1.] This line is called the tangent line to the circle C at P. The construction of this line involves two simple steps: i) draw a radius from the center of the circle, O, to the ...
